LISTOS CALIFORNIA EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS CAMPAIGN

Far too often, the people and communities hardest hit by natural disasters are those least equipped to survive them. The Listos California Emergency Preparedness Campaign helps highly vulnerable populations get ready for wildfires, earthquakes and floods, before disasters strike. (Listos means “ready” in Spanish.)

Emergency alerts are the cornerstone of readiness and all Californians should receive them. But in too many counties, few people do. To help, we created customized Disaster Directories for all 58 counties in both English and Spanish. Each directory provides:

- A brief profile of the county’s disaster risks
- Relevant vulnerabilities of its residents
- State and local alert resources for
  - General emergencies
  - Earthquakes
  - Wildfires
  - Public Safety Power Shutoffs
- Resources for people who are medically dependent on electricity
- State and county resources on COVID-19

Listos California hopes these Disaster Directories help bridge the gap between people in harm’s way and alerts that save lives. Please note that this directory is accurate as of the date on its cover. Be sure to check the status of any resource for the latest updates.

 COUNTY OVERVIEW

GLENN COUNTY AT A GLANCE

Glenn County: Located in northern California, within the Sacramento Valley

Major cities: Incorporated cities of Willows and Orland, Grindstone Indian Rancheria and many unincorporated communities including Hamilton City, Ord Bend, Artois, Elk Creek, Butte City and Glenn

Glenn County is susceptible to both man-made and natural hazards including levee failure, flood, drought, wildfire, severe weather, and earthquake. Many areas of Glenn County are vulnerable to flooding due to swelling along the Sacramento River. Six earthquake fault systems lie within the county, including the two longest—Barlett Springs and the Great Valley Fault. Glenn County is home to one critical access hospital; the second closest hospital is more than 35 miles away. Wildfires also pose a danger in the western region of the county, which overlaps with the Mendocino National Forest.

WHAT ARE EMERGENCY ALERTS?

When emergencies and disasters strike, public safety agencies use different types of alerts to send emergency information to your cell phone, landline, radio or television.

What are the main types of Emergency Alerts?

• Wireless Emergency Alerts (WEA) are a national service that sends a vibration, loud tone and short message through your phone if an emergency is nearby. You must have a cell phone that is WEA enabled to receive alerts. You don’t need to sign up and there is no charge to you. You can check the settings in your phone to make sure the alerts are activated.

• The Emergency Alert System can be used by state and local officials to deliver important emergency messages to your TV or Radio.

• Mass Notification Systems like reverse 9-1-1 send an alert to your landline phone if you are in an affected area. Check with your city or county to see if you need to opt into this service.

• Outdoor Warning Sirens warn you to get inside immediately for more information. These can only be heard outside.

• Weather Radios will broadcast loud alert sounds during an emergency. If the power is out and your TV is not working, these radios can still broadcast continuous weather and emergency information specific to your area, 24/7.
